CQ Material for Classroom Use

CQ classroom material is produced by the same staff which for twenty-two years has produced the Weekly Report and Almanac of Congressional Quarterly Service. Twenty years of the Service have now been compressed into a 2,040 page volume, CONGRESS AND THE NATION 1945-1964. The paperbacks described in this catalogue are adapted from CQ material previously published which is re-edited for classroom use.

Among the subscribers for Congressional Quarterly Service are nearly all of the nation's colleges, universities, reference libraries and principal newspapers.

All CQ paperbacks listed in this catalogue may be ordered in bulk through your bookstore which is allowed the normal 20 per cent textbook discount. CQ ships to bookstores within 48 hours of receipt of order (for books in print).

The CQ GUIDE is prepared twice yearly, Spring and Fall, as an up-to-date supplementary text for the study of American Government. Each edition updates the previous one. It contains the most useful and instructional of recent CQ material, rearranged and rewritten for classroom and study use.

Fall 1967 GUIDES will be available the last week of August 1967.

CQ STUDENT SERVICE

CQ Service makes available for classroom use regular CQ Weekly Reports in bulk each week at nominal rates. Student subscriptions are offered spring, summer and fall for 10 or 13 weeks (minimum of 10 subscriptions in bulk to one address). Instructors may adjust dates of service to suit their classroom needs. Each participating teacher receives a free desk copy. Subscription rates are as follows:

Number of Subscriptions	Includes CQ Guide	Price per Subscription
		Cycle of 10 Weekly Reports	Cycle of 13 Weekly Reports
10 and up	Yes	5.00	5.50
10 and up	No	4.00	4.50

To get the benefits of the CQ Weekly Reports in the classroom at the minimum cost you may have two or more students share in the cost and in the use of an individual copy.

Or you can place six of an order of twenty in a library where they are available to all, while the remaining fourteen go to students who desire them for home study.

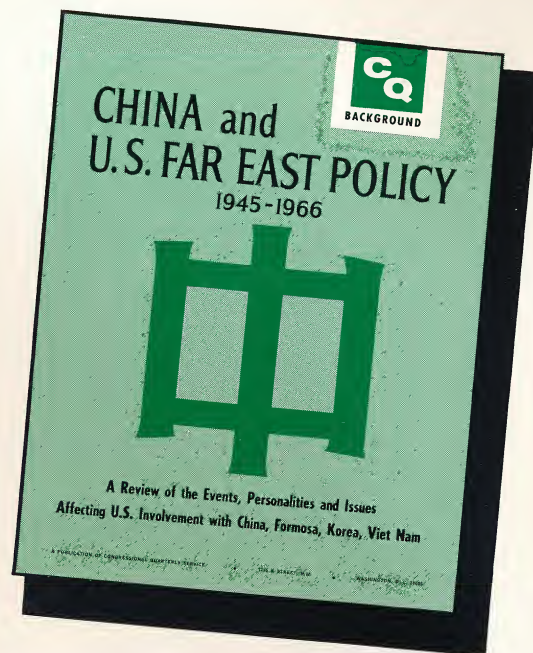

FOR EASIER HANDLING

Or you can place all copies in a library, thus making ten copies serve a class of forty or so students. The library method also makes the copies available for the students of two or even three courses, all of which may have different needs for the CQ material. In this latter case payment might be arranged from department or library funds without making it necessary for the students to buy this material.

Many teachers have their college bookstore order the bulk shipments and handle the collection from the student. The bookstore then adds a fee to the price of each subscription.

COMMENTS ON

Congress and the Nation

1945-1964

"Congress and the Nation 1945-1964 is certainly one of the most significant single volumes about American Government to appear in my lifetime—and it may be the most significant one.

"Those who teach and write about American politics, policy making and policy execution will find it useful beyond any book hitherto available to them. The prudent ones will want to be sure that the theories they construct take account of the relevant hypotheses that bubble up in every section of the book and, especially, that their propositions have been tested against the abundant empirical data on how our political institutions, processes, and participants really perform. The essential 'facts' are there, of course, but by placing them in context, penetrating beneath formal appearances, and writing lucidly and interestingly, the authors have succeeded in producing hundreds, perhaps thousands, of revealing case studies of how things get done, not done, and undone in our political system."

James W. Fesler

*Cowles Professor of Government
Yale University*

"Congress and the Nation completely solves the old question of what reading material one should take with him to a desert island—that is, if political and economic American history is his trade. With this book in hand, he has a substitute for an entire reference library."

Arthur Krock
New York Times

"You are doing a great service in making the essence of the Congress' proceedings available in a form that can be used easily."

Arnold J. Toynbee

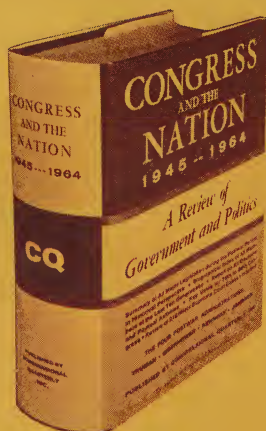

"What is particularly useful is the bringing together in one place of all the significant developments relating to a given topic over the twenty years covered by this volume. What you have done is to provide those of us using your compendium with an instant historical perspective. . ."

Morris K. Udall
U.S. Representative from Arizona

"I have used Congress and the Nation 1945-1964 repeatedly . . . I don't know how I'd get along without it now. But that's been true of Congressional Quarterly Service, too. Among the tools available to political scientists, I can think of none more valuable than Congressional Quarterly Service, and now this magnificent compendium, Congress and the Nation."

The Late Peter H. Odegard
*Professor of Political Science
University of California, Berkeley*

ESSENTIAL new reference for school, public and college libraries . . . thoroughly indexed.

CONGRESS AND THE NATION 1945 - 1964

$27.50

A 2000-page (8½ x 11 inches) review of legislation and politics of the past twenty years. Here are some of the dimensions of CONGRESS AND THE NATION:

Each subject . . . Education, Social Security, Atomic Energy, Water Conservation and Control, Veterans, Farm Policy, Civil Liberties, and others . . . is exhaustively treated: pre-war background, basis of policy, political significance, and a meticulous year-by-year review of legislation in each field from 1945 through 1964.

YOUR PERSONAL SUBSCRIPTION

to the

CQ WEEKLY REPORT

CONGRESSIONAL QUARTERLY SERVICE

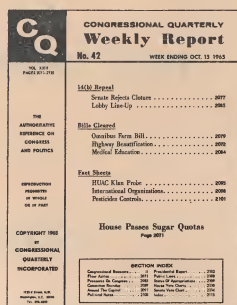

CQ Service, consisting of 52 Weekly Reports, their cumulative 90-day Indexes and a 1,600 page Almanac is expensive to produce because of the extensive research required. The Service is wholly dependent upon subscription revenue.

Educational institutions are granted the public service rate of $120.00 a year, the lowest rate at which the full service is available. This rate is less than five percent of that applicable to other classes of subscribers.

What Congressional Quarterly Service is:

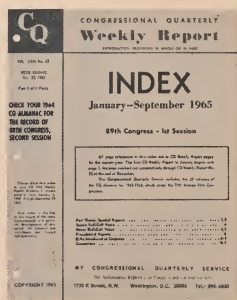

THE WEEKLY REPORT

digests Congressional and political activity for the current week -- mailed every Friday night. It includes full texts of Presidential press conferences, major statements, messages and speeches. Its page size is eight and one-half by eleven inches.

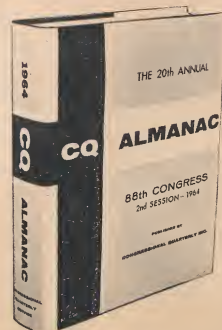

THE QUARTERLY INDEX

indexes by names and subjects the contents of all preceding issues of the Weekly Report for the year. It is the only current cumulative index to the full range of activities concerning Congress and politics and to the actual words of the President. It follows the Weekly Report in format.

THE ALMANAC

published early in the year and covering the previous calendar year, is a 1,600-page volume which distills, reorganizes and cross-indexes the account of the full year in Congress, politics and lobbying for permanent reference.

Personal Subscriptions To the Weekly Report

Many political scientists have informed CQ of the great convenience it would be to them to have the Weekly Reports and their Indexes for their personal files rather than to have to use the library copies. In order to meet this need without compromising the rate structure for the regular CQ Service we have devised the following plan.

Faculty members may subscribe to the Weekly Reports and their Indexes for $24.00 a year (payable in advance) under the following conditions:

a. Their institution must have a subscription to the full CQ Service in its library.

b. The faculty member must certify that the subscription is for his personal use only, and does not constitute a departmental or institutional purchase.

c. Payment in advance must be made by personal check or money order (institutional checks or purchase orders are not acceptable).

There is no provision for billing; faculty members who participate in this plan will receive a single notice one month before their subscription expires.

Please return the attached form along with your check for $24.00 to begin (renew) your personal subscription if it will be in accord with the above conditions.

Congressional Quarterly, Inc.
